

Discipleship Explored

Session 3 : One in Christ

By Barry Cooper

11/02/2023

Carl Madsen

Email: 1HDRider@GMail.COM

Recap

Session 1 - Confident in Christ      David Pond

Session 2 - Living in Christ                      George Murphy

Session 3 - One in Christ                      Carl Madsen

Next Week:

Session 4 - Obedient in Christ      Steve Jaros

Set Apart, Your role as a Disciple

Key Scripture

Matthew 28:18-20 <sup>18</sup> Then Jesus came to them and said, “All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. <sup>19</sup> Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, <sup>20</sup> teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you. And surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age.”

Session Three Key Scripture

Philippians 1:27- Whatever happens, conduct yourselves in a manner worthy of the gospel of Christ. Then, whether I come and see you or only hear about you in my absence, I will know that you stand firm in one spirit, contending as one man for the faith of the gospel.

Concept- It is a privilege to suffer for Christ

Discussion question: How do you suffer for Christ in you life? What do you think people are saying about you? How are you bringing glory to the kingdom of God? Is you attitude the same as Christ Jesus?

Roll the Video

Points from the Video

- We are to have the “Same Love”, “Same Mindset”, “Same Spirit”.
- Stand firm in One Spirit (the Holy Spirit)
- Suffering is a Gift
- “Pride” brakes down the “Oneness” with Jesus Christ
- We are to be Slaves of Christ
- Paul uses the Greek word “Koinonia” which means: Community, Communion, Joint Participation, Sharing and Intimacy, Fellowship, Oneness
- “Koinonia” is used 19 times in the New Testament

Points from the Video(cont.)

- Remember, It wasn't the nails that kept Jesus on the cross - It was Love.
- The love we have for our wife's, our friends, our children, widows, and homeless is from GOD.
- You can not even forgive another person without God's love.
- We need to be “One with God” - “Koinonia”

Final discussion question(s)

- Based upon what we have seen today, “What is one in Christ?”
- How do you “Stand Firm in One Spirit”?
- What areas of your life reflect you as “Slaves of Christ”?

Things which encourage your development as a disciple

Prayer - Specifically praying for the ministry that you are in or asking the Lord to give you a ministry where you are discipling another.

Scripture - Memorizing Scripture so that you can both reflect upon it and have it available as a tool in any situation-this series has eight key verses that relate to aspects of discipleship.

Personal testimony - Having a prepared, organized personal testimony that can be given in any situation.

Additional Verses & Reference

- Colossians 3:12-17
- 1 Peter 2:9-12
- You can download my presentation and notes from our website:

• <https://dscmen.org/bible-study-archive/>

Thank You – Have a Blessed Day

What Every Christian Needs to Know about Koinonia

Jessica Brodie

Culture today often promotes a me-first mentality, from “do what makes you happy” to the pervasive selfie photo. Many of us live in gated communities and rarely interact with our neighbors. We tend to embrace individual freedom and decision-making that reflects our own interests over those of an organized group, church, or government.

Yet Christianity, while valuing the individual, consistently urges us to value God first and others second. Forget “me first,” for as Jesus taught in the Gospel of Matthew, many of the first will be last and last will be first (Matthew 19:30) and that the two greatest commandments are, first, to love the Lord with every ounce of our being and, second, to love our neighbor as ourselves (Matthew 22:37-39).

Christianity isn’t intended to be lived in a self-dependent silo. The church was established with Christ at the head and people as its body, with disciples commissioned by Jesus to “go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you” (Matthew 28:19-20).

Tied up in all of that is the concept of koinonia.

What Is the Meaning of Koinonia?

While there is no exact translation in English, koinonia is a Greek word most closely associated with concepts of a holy, covenantal fellowship. Joseph Henry Thayer’s Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament defines it as “fellowship, association, community, communion, joint participation.” Its origin is in the Greek word koinonos, which means partner, sharer, and companion. In short, it is a shared community that involves deep, close-knit participation among its people.

While some are tempted to substitute the word “fellowship” for koinonia, it’s far deeper. Fellowship is a more surface-level, friendly relationship, while koinonia is full, intimate unity. And it’s an important element in the New Testament particularly, as the apostles became filled with the Holy Spirit and then helped establish the first communities of new believers, who shared not only in the Spirit, but also in all aspects of life together, from meals and homes to money.

The concept of communion is exemplified in koinonia. Communion, which means sharing, also represents the communion Christ offered the disciples in sharing his body and blood during the Last Supper, a practice Christians around the world do today in remembrance of the love Jesus had for us and the sacrifice He gave.

What Does Koinonia Mean in the Bible?

In the Bible, koinonia is more than friendship. It is a divinely intimate, holy unity among believers—and between believers and the Lord—involving everything from spiritual oneness in the Holy Spirit, community life, sharing contributions from money to food gifts, and the communion partaken in the body and blood of Christ Jesus. The Book of Acts is the first place we see the word koinonia in the Bible. Here, it is translated to mean a deep community fellowship among believers.

In Acts 2, Peter and the other believers had just been filled with the Holy Spirit on the Day of Pentecost, but the Jews watching were bewildered at the disciples' ability to speak in many different languages; some even thought they were drunk. But Peter brought the gospel to these onlookers, and 3,000 became new believers and were baptized that day. After, these newly baptized believers “devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching and to fellowship (koinonia), to the breaking of bread and to prayer” (Acts 2:42).

The passage goes on to elaborate about what this koinonia looked like: communal-style living, where they “had everything in common,” sold property to give to anyone in need, gathered regularly in the temple courts, and ate together joyfully in their homes (43-47). Later, when Gentiles began to hear the Good News and also became Christian, we see the concept of koinonia used to include them, too. Back then, Jews and Gentiles did not intermingle and thought poorly of each other. But Christ at work in them through the power of the Holy Spirit allowed these separate groups to dissolve their former boundaries and become as one—true koinonia.

As the apostle Paul wrote to the early church in Ephesus, God had a secret plan, a “mystery,” of unity beyond these cultural constraints. “This mystery is that through the gospel the Gentiles are heirs together with Israel, members together of one body, and sharers together in the promise in Christ Jesus” (Ephesians 3:6).

Koinonia also includes the many-become-one concept reflected in the sacrament of Holy Communion. In the Last Supper, Jesus offered bread as his own body, “given for you,” and then his blood in the wine, calling it “the new covenant in my blood, which is poured out for you” (Luke 22:19-20). Later, the apostle Paul reminds early Christians that this act, too, is a part of koinonia, as those who partake are one body all sharing one loaf (1 Corinthians 10:17).

And it's not just the sharing of food. Koinonia applies also to the sharing of financial gifts. As Paul wrote to the church in Corinth, generosity applies both to the spiritual and the material. Their financial generosity not only helps the community with physical needs but also serves as evidence that helps draw others into that united body of Christ.

Why Is Koinonia Important to the Christian Lifestyle?

The heart of the gospel is that Jesus is the path to eternal life, and that if we repent and believe, we should follow Him and obey His commands. And as Jesus told us in Matthew 22:37-39, those commands are first to love God and second to love our neighbors as ourselves. When we love others as ourselves, it's a joining, a uniting, a partnership. It says in effect that we are all in this together, or as the apostle Paul used as an analogy, all part of one body.

Therefore, Christ-followers serious about doing the will of the Lord try their best to heed these commands. When we love others as ourselves, we are generous. We share what we have, whatever that is—money, food, time, gifts, and more. All are connected, all interrelated.

As Paul wrote, “The eye cannot say to the hand, ‘I don't need you!’ And the head cannot say to the feet, ‘I don't need you!’ ... there should be no division in the body, but that its parts should have equal concern for each other. If one part suffers, every part suffers with it; if one part is honored, every part rejoices with it. Now you are the body of Christ, and each one of you is a part of it” (1 Corinthians 12:21, 25-27)

7 Ways Christians Can Implement Koinonia Today

Christians don't need to live in a communal home in order to live out koinonia today, but it's far more than chatting over coffee and doughnuts after worship. It's modeling the love Jesus extended to us. As Jesus told the disciples in John 13:34, “As I have loved you, so you must love one another.” We can serve each other with our spiritual gifts as a form of love and offer more practical, tangible love.

1. Spiritual gifts: Serving each other with our spiritual gifts is one key way we can be the full body of Christ today. As Peter wrote, “Each of you should use whatever gift you have received to serve others, as faithful stewards of God’s grace in its various forms” (1 Peter 4:10). Paul expanded on this, noting, “We have different gifts, according to the grace given to each of us. If your gift is prophesying, then prophesy in accordance with your faith; if it is serving, then serve; if it is teaching, then teach; if it is to encourage, then give encouragement; if it is giving, then give generously; if it is to lead, do it diligently; if it is to show mercy, do it cheerfully” (Romans 12:6-8).

2. Hospitality: We can be hospitable to each other, offering food, clothing shelter, and more.

3. Togetherness: We can gather together for worship, Bible study, small group time, meals, and service opportunities.

4. Acceptance: We can accept and include each other even when one among us is weak in faith or unusual.

5. Encouragement: We can encourage and support each other and hold each other accountable when necessary.

6. Service: We can serve each other, whether washing each other’s feet, watching each other’s children, or providing a meal when someone is sick or otherwise unable.

7. Sharing our abundance: We can share our abundance with each other and the church through our tithes and offerings so that God’s good work may be done in the world.

By doing these things, we bring God and others into full unity with ourselves, pushing aside our own selfish concerns to embrace harmony, generosity, and accord. It might be tough to embrace the concepts of koinonia in such a self-oriented world, but we are called repeatedly to do so. And we are given an ideal model, both in Jesus and in the disciples.

Your turn: How are you living out koinonia today? What new practices can you adopt to help this concept thrive in your church and community?

---

*Jessica Brodie is an award-winning Christian novelist, journalist, editor, blogger, and writing coach and the recipient of the 2018 American Christian Fiction Writers Genesis Award for her novel, The Memory Garden. She is also the editor of the South Carolina United Methodist Advocate, the oldest newspaper in Methodism, and a member of the Wholly Loved Ministries team. Learn more at <http://jessicabrodie.com>.*

Photo credit: ©GettyImages/Rawpixel

LISTEN: Being Complete in Jesus (Understanding Matthew 5:21-48)

Hearing Jesus is a devotional journey through the gospels, where we explore the teachings of Jesus chapter by chapter. If you're seeking to live a life that reflects God's, this podcast is for you.

Hearing Jesus: Daily Bible Study, Devotional, Prayer

387// Being Complete in Jesus: Understanding Matthew

30:46 / 07:20